Want to learn how to carry out basic brewing skills in a commercial or non-commercial environment?

We're excited to currently be developing this Level 3 brewing certificate. This is an entry-level qualification, designed for those already working in the industry or those intending to enter the industry in an entry-level role.

You'll learn all about:

- > the brewing industry, brewing processes, and plant and equipment used
- > legislation, food safety, regulatory, and workplace and personal health and safety requirements
- > processing raw materials and completing routine brewing tasks in a brewing operation.

You'll graduate being able to work as a brewing process operator; able to carry out basic brewing tasks safely and efficiently under limited supervision.

Please email central@op.ac.nz to be kept in the loop about this programme or if you have any questions - we'll let you know when it's open for applications!

*subject to final approval
